Programme: Bachelor's degree in Economia – Economics and International Management

Double Degree Programme in Economics and International Management with Clermont Business School (France)

Something about me

I am passionate about economics, public policy, and climate change. My academic journey has been diverse and international, reflecting my commitment to gaining a global perspective on these critical issues. I participated in a double-degree bachelor's program between UNIPD and ESC Clermont, then earned my MSc in Economics and Management of Government and International Organizations from Bocconi University. Currently, I am gaining practical experience through an internship at Intellera Consulting in Rome, where I am further developing my skills and deepening my understanding of policy and economic challenges. I am eager to leverage this knowledge and experience to address pressing global issues, particularly in areas intersecting economics and sustainability.

About my UNIPD Experience

What do you like the most about the degree programme? Would you recommend it?

The International Environment was my favourite part of the experience. There were many students coming from all around the world and I was able to come into contact with many cultures both professionally and personally.

What are the main features of your double degree programme?

The courses I liked the most, which were also useful for my professional career, were: Website development and digital marketing, Export and import trading and Business intelligence.

What is the added value in participating in these kind of programmes (academic and private)?

Thanks to the double degree I could apply for French universities as a national student and for Italian universities as an international student. I also noticed that such international experience is highly valued by the companies and also the French language (I got a B2 after the experience) has been very useful.

Have you used any support services?

The international student office in Padua was very helpful and ready in the moment to help you with any problem or situation.
