Information Note: Open, Transparent and Merit-based Recruitment of Researchers (OTM-R) at the University of Padova

Introduction

In 2005 the European Commission published the “European Charter for Researchers” and “The Code of Conduct for the Recruitment of Researchers” (respectively, “Charter” and “Code”). These two documents feature a number of recommendations regarding rights as well as obligations for both researchers and their employers/research funders. The aim is to promote mobility, to improve working conditions and environment, to support professional recognition and development as well as to strengthen best practices in research-related supporting services.

In 2014, the University of Padova developed a new Human Resources Strategy for Researchers (HRS4R) along with an action plan (2014-2016) intended to improve the working conditions and the services for researchers in the following main fields:

- missions of the University and governance;
- recruitment and selection of researchers;
- status of research staff and career development;
- working conditions;
- internationalisation.

Following the action plan’s approval, the European Commission awarded the University with the renewal of the HR Excellence in Research accreditation for an additional 3-year period. To ensure continuous improvement, the University developed a revised HRS4R action plan (2017-2019) including, among others, measures in terms of recruitment and selection in research. The aim is to establish a consistent, open, transparent and merit-based recruitment system. This general policy on recruitment is summarised in the present document.

General Recruitment Policy for Researchers at the University of Padova

General Considerations

At the University of Padova, the following categories of researchers are directly recruited:

- PhD students;
- Post-doc fellows;
- Researchers with 3-years based research contract, renewable up to maximum 5 years (RTD(A) as per Italian National law L.240);
- Researches in a Tenure Track Programme (RTD(B) as per Italian National law L.240/2010);
- Professors (Associates and Full Professors positions);

The recruitment rules are standardized within the same category, each category having different rules depending on the requirements mandated by the Italian National Law L.240. Recruitment and selection matters and regulations were defined and approved. by the main Government’s Bodies and this process included the participation and consultation of the representatives of each research category.

These regulations are public and meant to guarantee that equal rules and treatment shall apply under equal circumstances to any applicant. Find more detailed information at the following link: https://www.unipd.it/regolamenti-personale-docente (in Italian).

Both the University and the involved Departments publicly advertise all vacant positions available via journals and electronic media.

The University of Padova acknowledges that the recruitment process shall be fulfilled in the most efficient way, thus applying clear recruitment and selection rules. Nevertheless, despite the rules’ standardization, some exceptions may occur. Exceptions may be authorized in some cases deemed as necessary, as long as they are duly justified, sustainable and respectful of the general principles of the Recruitment Code.

Reaching excellence in the research field is a key factor for the University of Padova, for its development, its reputation and its internationalization. To reach this objective, the recruitment process may feature some specific requirements with regards to CV, skills and abilities needed to cover a particular open position. The recruitment process is managed in such a way as to guarantee the highest possibilities of participation for any applicant, whichever the nationality and/or the employer, provided that the original rules and requirements are fulfilled.

6) The University of Padova is also one of the Local Contact Points of EURAXESS. The University of Padova, within the framework of the OTM Recruitment of Researchers policies, aims at developing the following actions through its revised HRS4R action plan for the 3-year period 2017-2019:

   - extensive use of e-recruitments tools at all levels, provided they are compatible with the national Laws and with any possible additional specific requirement (e.g. obligation of sending printed documents);
   - improvement of communications, especially with regards to the selection procedures, the working conditions and, if necessary, on the research grants;
   - improvement of the welcoming system of newly-hired researchers.

Derogations

Any exception to the recruitment procedures will be authorized when deemed necessary, especially to welcome and re-integrate researchers or to implement actions related to the University gender and equal opportunities policies. The derogation process must be clear, transparent, justified and non-discriminatory and the Main Bodies involved must approve it.
