UNIVERSITY OF PADUA
FOUNDED IN 1222
The University of Padua is a world-leading research-intensive university that has been driving global change since its foundation in 1222. Loyal to its motto Universa Universis Patavina Libertas (Paduan freedom is universal for everyone), it has always been a bastion of free thought, study and research.

During eight centuries, students, researchers, and alumni have provided key contributions to the advancement of knowledge, science and society: Nicolaus Copernicus and Galileo Galilei are among the fathers of modern science, Andreas Vesalius and William Harvey founded modern medicine and Elena Lucrezia Cornaro Piscopia became the world’s first woman to graduate in 1678.

The University of Padua provides all students with global perspectives during their studies. The international dimension of the University is witnessed both by the growing number of programmes completely held in English and by an increasing range of initiatives. Students develop an international and intercultural approach thanks to an integrated teaching method that suggests a global vision on the key elements debated during the lessons. This modern perspective is ensured by a significant presence of international visiting scientists and professors from outstanding universities and research institutes. Becoming a student of the University of Padua means accessing to an open and vibrant community, made of local and international students, as well as internationally mobile incoming students with many different cultural and educational backgrounds. The participation of the University in several international networks, such as the Arqus European University Alliance, Venice International University, the Coimbra Group, UNIMED and Uniadrion, further enhances the array of international experiences students can benefit from. Exchange programmes, virtual and blended mobility, language trainings and an active involvement in the Alliance activities are some of the opportunities available to students.

The University of Padua offers a variety of international joint and double degree programmes in cooperation with key partners worldwide. The programmes are based on complementary courses at the partner universities, which offer their leading expertise to the students. Students enrolling in such programmes spend one or more semesters at a partner university and acquire either a single qualification jointly released by both academic institutions (joint degree) or two degree titles, released by the involved institutions (double degree). Among others, Erasmus Mundus Joint Master Degrees are an example of joint programmes, where students are required to attend modules in at least two Higher Education Institutions in two different countries. At the end of the programme, successful students will be awarded a double, multiple or joint degree. Engineering students also have the chance to participate in one of the double degree programmes offered in the framework of the prestigious Top International Managers in Engineering (TIME) Association.

INTERNATIONAL EXPERIENCES

INTERNATIONAL MOBILITY
For over 30 years, the University of Padua has strongly encouraged student mobility as a unique experience. Whether they choose to spend a study period abroad, carry out international research projects or internships at a partner university, students not only improve their intercultural and language skills, but also acquire new and valuable competences in a different academic context.
Thanks to several bilateral agreements with other universities in Europe and all over the world, every year thousands of students take part in mobility programmes or attend international courses, thus having the chance to study new subjects, get to know different cultures and benefit from other educational approaches.
The University of Padua is also a significant player in the Erasmus+ Programme, which enables students to spend a long-term period abroad at partner universities or to take part in Blended Intensive Programmes combining a significant virtual component with a short physical mobility.
It also joined the Swiss European Mobility Programme (SEMP), which allows students to spend a study period at a partner university in Switzerland.
Furthermore, the University of Padua has developed its own overseas programme, Ulisse, which offers students the opportunity to study/research at partner universities outside the EU.

VIRTUAL EXCHANGE
The University of Padua has several active Virtual Exchange programmes. Jointly organised between at least two international universities, Virtual Exchange is an accessible, ground- breaking international experience, leveraging on new technologies and a common lingua franca, without entailing physical mobility. Based on a student-centred and learner-led collaborative experience, it aims at developing a common project and/or discussing interdisciplinary topics with a challenged-based approach.

SUMMER AND WINTER SCHOOLS
Top quality short-term intensive courses are jointly organised by the University of Padua and other national and/or international institutions. Activities are usually carried out in English and include workshops, practical exercises, seminars, lab activities and guided tours, all held in an international environment.
WORKING WHILE STUDYING

WORK OPPORTUNITIES
In accordance with the Italian law, EU students are free to work during their studies. Non-EU students with a valid residence permit are allowed to work up to 20 hours/week. The University of Padua offers some part-time jobs, which are advertised in specific public Calls for applications.
