

Tutorship for Learning Processes

Professional outlets: The Tutorship for Learning Processes is a competence, focused on the understanding and the promotion - in different scholastics and extra scholastics learning contexts - of the study and learning abilities. It involves competences in cognitive psychology of learning processes, basic management of emotional-motivational and contextual issues involved in learning and project planning activities.

These competences enrich the professional skills of teachers, pedagogists, professional trainers and psychologists, within their own respective roles and responsibilities.
