Bending Spoons is a global tech company based in Milan. Since 2013, we've acquired and scaled a range of digital products—reaching over a billion people worldwide. Our portfolio includes beloved brands like Evernote, WeTransfer, and Remini.

At Bending Spoons, we don't focus on a single product. We've built a platform that lets us apply the same technologies and practices across everything we create. Close collaboration between engineering and product management ensures our products don't just work—they thrive.

In this talk, we'll explore how this approach has shaped WeTransfer. You'll also learn about career opportunities at Bending Spoons and how you can help build technology that makes a global difference.
